[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

22nd June. In this year of grace when the whole atmosphere is surcharged with the din of Jubilee of our Sovereign Lady Queen Victoria, and when the different sections of Her Majesty's subjects ther enquiries had been made with regard to the oided to adjourn this case until they knew what vie with one another, irrespective of caste or creed, race or religion, in the display of their loyalty and devotion to the person and throne of their August Sovereign, the British subjects in about the first two men, that they went on board the Bench would decide in this case and then this sixth corner of the world may be said to subscription list was put in circulation only a fortnight ago, and about $1,000 were readily subscribed, a sum which, it is thought, is too inadequate to admit of the somewhat elaborate programme being carried out in its entirety. but for the matter of that, a sum which is, nevertheless, neither too niggardly nor small, looking at the smallness of the community, and when it is remembered that there was anothe Kwo Ashing, Ng Aking and Li Alo, who were demand from the worthy spouse of our British Minister at Peking made on the purse of the fair sex in the community to subscribe to the funds of the "Women's Jubiles Memorial to the The first prisoner was sentenced to one year's | Queen," or something skin to it, organised in England, and that in response to this appeal s sum verging very near on 3200 was subscribed by this soft-hearted and amiable section of H. Of these thousand dollars, the expenses incidental to the ephemeral show and rejoicings swallow up more than four hundred dollars, and as the surplus remaining at the disposal of the Committee is not so large as to meet the cost of the purchase of ground for, and building of a Jubilee Wing in the compound of the Chinese Hospital, for the admission of all foreigners suffering from epidemic diseases, it is not beyond the range of probability that this favourite hobby of a few will hang fire.

Thus prepared with the Jubilee budget of income and expenditure, the Committee issued invitation cards to all the members of the foreign community other than the British subjects,they having a right of admittance to the Consulate grounds—to witness the ceremony of planting the Jubilee Tree and take part in the general rejoicings, which came off yesterday. The day was observed as a general holiday, the Custom House, the Consulate, and the merchants' offices being all-closed to general business. The weather was all that one could wish for, the scorching June sun being concealed behind white silver clouds, thus tempering down the intensity of the heat in the day. Nor was there any drizpling or short showers of rain, so uncertain and sudden at this time of the year, to mar the joy and damp the spirits of the general public. In the morning the following congratulatory telegram was despatched which speaks for itself.

As the sun begins to shine with greater warmth in small French towns, a new phenomenon appears in the streets. The cooper and the iron-"Sugar," said the schoolmaster to his class," is bangs outside his workshop a sort of syncopated either made from the beet, as in France, or from vat; the ironmonger a sort of orestion resembling the sugar-cane, as in the West Indies. Now, do half a funnel after a very fat man had sat you think you can remember that ?"—" Yes, sir," violently down upon it. These, ladies and replied a sharp boy, "I think we can remember gentlemen, are "tubs" for the delectation of the connection between the cane and the beat." summer Britons. The keynote to the movement is struck when the first yacht casts anchor A celebrated actress, whose fresh smile and in the Cherbourg rade. Thence it sproads

The Apostlo of Temperance lectured lately to Nowtown, N.J., in the United States, and his lecture was heard and answered by the young ladies of that town. In one wild night of en-From the plough to the judicial beach seems a thusiastic abstinence the "Anti-Vice Society" in any form whatever. The plain ladies of Newtown flocked to sign this pledge, and for a week it was believed that the young men of the neighbourhood were passionately emptying the con-tents of their cellars into the main drain. Certainly at several of the best houses the "German " languished; and many of the most eligible bachelors of Newtown were discovered in the supper-room trying hard to conquer their weakness for champague and claret-cup. Then came a disquieting rumour. It was whispered that the young Bacchi and Sileni of Newtown were visiting around in the neighbouring towns and villages. Some of the most ruffianly had even taken the train for New York, and were to be heard of in all the best mansions on Fifth Avenue. The "Anti-Vice Society," undismayed, held meetings stoutly. They had a conversatione, and an "At Home"-a function which the local newspaper declared to be quite unnecessary, in view of the native "homeliness" of members of the "Antivice Society." But still no young men put in an appearance. The boycotted were boycotting the ladies -drinking tousts deeply in other parts of New Jersey to the confusion of teetotalism generally. At length, after five weeks' experience, the rules of the society have been so far relaxed that members are now permitted to consider nmorous propositions on the part of any male Newtonian not estentationally the worse for

EXTRACTS. LIVELY POKER.

PIVE ACRS, A BIG POT AND TWO DEAD MEN. They had a poker game here Siturday night, says the Farmington Correspondent of the New York Sun, in the back room Jicarillo Bob, who was present to see that everything was fair. The men at the table were Tom Sinsabaugh, a cattle-dealer, and Potter Abert, Omaha Throup and Pap Williams, gamblers. The game had been going along for some time without much excitement and with no very large winnings. when suddenly Pap Williams, who had thrown down two oards, offered to go it blind for $50. The others sow him, and crowd that had assembled at the bar moved over to see how the thing would come out. All the other drew three cards each. liams ran his cards over carelessly, called for a drink, and with a cigar in one corner of his mouth said he would bet $50. All the others staid in, and on the show-down, no one munifesting a disposition to raise it. appeared that there were five aces out, Pap Williams having three and Potter Abert two. This discovery came very near sulting in war, but at the suggestion Jicarillo Bob the pot was left up and a new deal was had, be taking the extra acc and tearing it up. . After the new deal Abert called for four cards, Sinsabaugh for three, Throup for Ishmeel are to be met with. The sum of three, and Williams for two. There was now more than $100 in the pot, and, Abert offered to bet $50, the others felt that they would have to see him. When it came around to Abert again he concluded to raise the terms a little, and he put up $100. This caused old man Sinsabaugh to draw out, with the remark that the water was getting the rovers. Besides discharging the function of except under unavoidable circumstances. In tion of scouts for the exploration of pleasant case of stress of weather, due notice will be a stress of stress of weather, due notice will be a stress of stress came the cards, almost simultaneously with their appearance was the crack of a revolver. and Potter Abert fell out of his chair while Pap Williams, gun in hand, reached over and swept in the pile of money. If we are asked of what use a fifty-thousand. acre forest can possibly be in an age and a country like our own, we seem to find a of weakness. Keeps good in the hottest climates and sufficient answer in those audual outbursts of the nomadic temper which we experience as surely as summer greenery breaks forth once more. So far from being extinguished, the here ditary delight in occasional intervals of Bohemian existence seems to guther new strength from the contrast with modern routine. Our capricious atmosphere scarcely begins to renew its brief season of geniality India. before we are planning as to how, when, and where the shackles of urban life can be most completely shaken off. More and more decid- Company. ed, as each year revolves, is the liking for a temporary recourse, in outward life at least, 9. Parcutrou Avenue, London, England, [1149] to the principles of Robin Hoodism. The sign is good, for it tells of a fresh access of ATKINSON'S ENGLISH PERFUMERY physical health and staming to our generation, and of the contentment which a sturdy frame can find amid those conditions of existence which it is usual to describe as " roughing it." It is uncertain, by the way, whether any phraseologist has ever concerned himself to discover the autithesis of this expression; but, if to be sought exclusively among the conditions of artificial life, it can hardly be defined with invariable accuracy as "smoothing it." One result of this revival of the love for a roaming life is that the modern nomad is beginning at last to penetrate some of the recesses of his own country. Some of our own forests have absolutely been rediscovered. . Our sons are telling us tales of ancient romance and modern adventure in Ashdown, St. Leonards, Savernake, Wool: NTOT RESPONSIBLE FOR DEBTS mer, Needwood and Whittlebury; and descanting upon the charms of regions which in our own hoyhood we scarcely even knew by name.

Did we, for instance, ever tell our children of those old iron mines in Tilgate Forest, where the metal was smelted from the ore with charcoal made from the surrounding AIRLE, Brit. str., Ellis.—Russell & Co. timber-a metal which, if tradition be correct did duty for so long in the massive iron rail- BILLY SIMPSON, Brit. bk., Brown.—Gibb, Liings enclosing St. Paul's Church and ? Or, did we ORIENT, Ger. bk., Ruder.-Wieler & Co. ever describe, with bated breath, that weird scene in the Forest of Gaultries, when Sir Anthon Bek, the Bishop of Dorham, encountered the apparition of the robber, Hugh de === Pointebardon; called De Gros Veneur: and how, when the Bishop said unto him, " Hugh what maketh thee here?" he "epake never THE Undersigned, Agents for Messrs. word, but lifted up his cloke and shewed Sir Anthon his ribbes set with bones, and nothing more?" All these stirring memoriesnot to mention the wondrous beauties of natural scenery, as fresh, to-day as when the Parliament Oak was a sapling-are matters wherein we have to see our children instructing ourselves. There is a reaction against sterm and horse-firsh as the only sources of holiday locomotion, and every succeeding summer sees a contingent of our health-seekers distributed through the land with but little aid from either. Individual nomadic life has always been associated with more or less remance, ever since the first "dwellers in tents" contributed their share to the world's history. A wandering existence implies a free choice of the best climates and the most fertile lands; or, in other words, the maximum of health and comfort with the minimum of labour. Not that these two conditions stand by any means in the relation of cause and offectexcepting, perhaps, in the logic of a romantic imagination. But there is a sense of power in the idea of claiming the whole habitable world as a residence; and whether the temporary shelter be a goatskin tent on the plains of Morocco, or a house-hoat at Honley, it possesses the undefinable charm of a portable bomestead. The modern nomad differs from the Bedouin or the Sioux Indian only in that fortune, instead of the teeming earth, has provided his necessaries and luxuries. There is a tribe, one may almost say a nation, of such at the present day, to whom a roving life is no mere holiday relaxation, but the chronic order of their lives. No matter on what part of wild or civilised travel one may chance to wander, these modern sous of their life's happiness is contained in the thought that they will be " here to-day and gone to-morrow." All nationalities contribute to the ranks of modern nomadism; but the English-speaking races in by far the largest proportion. Nor is that wast mass of the non-floating population which has "taken root" altogether without its debt to places wherein their less fortunate brethren given of any stoppages may wile away an odd week or two, they THINA OVERLAND TRADE REPORT may, if they will, be the true pioneers of civilisation in benighted lands.
